

Obedience

The K-9 team will heel at different directions and at all time remaining under control at the handlers side.

The test consists of the following exercises with the dog off lead.

The dog will heel on a course with a minimum of two left turns, two right turns and two about faces (one being a finish). The team will walk three legs with a turn at the end of each leg. Each leg will be a minimum of 20 yards in length. At the halfway point on the final leg, the dog will be commanded to a sit, stand or down in motion or with the handler at a stop. The handler will then continue to the end of the leg, turn and face the dog. At the direction of the certifying official, the handler will call the dog to a finish position.

The test will be judged Pass/Fail.

A passing score will be the dog staying under control at the handler's side and performing the sit stand or down without breaking. A minimal amount of forging or lagging will not be considered a failure.
